Pastoral Visit

As mentioned in this column two issues back and as announced in the church at all masses of the past two weekends, His Excellency, Most Reverend Salvatore J. Cordileone, Archbishop of San Francisco, is doing a pastoral visitation here at our parish this weekend, September 20 & 21.

In a letter he sent to parishes in August 2013, the Archbishop explained that "Canon Law requires bishops to visit the parishes of their diocese at least once every five years." He added that such visit is "one of the best ways a bishop can come to know his diocese well."

We welcome with great joy this wonderful event taking place in our parish. Of the 90 parishes that make up the Archdiocese, I believe that we are the 18th to be visited. To better understand the significance of this visit, let me clarify the structure of the Church. The entire Catholic Church is comprised of dioceses, each headed by a bishop. There are 3, 127 dioceses all over the world; 194 in the US. The bishop exercises authority and is tasked with the pastoral and spiritual care of the people. For better administration and management, dioceses are divided into communities called parishes each headed by a pastor. The pastor, other priests and deacons assigned in that parish serve as assistants, coworkers and helpers to the bishop in his role as shepherd. Thus the visit of a bishop is that of the real shepherd of the flock. His presence sends a clear message that he cares for us, and also makes us aware that we are part of a bigger community, that of the diocese and even of the universal church.

Since we expect that the Archbishop will get to know our parish, it is also important that we get to know him as well. He was born on June 5, 1956 in San Diego, California to Leon and Mary Cordileone (deceased last May). He was ordained a priest for San Diego in July 9, 1982. After twenty years of being a priest in San Diego and in Rome, he was ordained a bishop on August 21 2002. Seven years later he was appointed bishop of Oakland and in July 27, 2012 he was appointed Ninth Archbishop of San Francisco, succeeding Archbishop George Niederauer.

Archbishop Cordileone is fluent in English, Italian, Spanish and Latin. He is soft-spoken and humble in demeanor. He loves jazz music, swimming, baseball and football. He is a staunch and courageous supporter of marriage as defined by the church between one man and one woman for which he has come under fire from oppositionists.

Even under intense attack, he remained calm and civil explaining clearly the position of the church and openly inviting his critics to a dialogue for "it is the personal encounter that changes the vision of the other and softens the heart." It is in this light that the archbishop is coming.

Presiding at the wedding of 20 couples in St. Peter's Basilica last Sunday, Pope Francis emphasized on the complementary role of man and woman in joint journey through life. "The husband helps his wife to become ever more a woman, he said, "and the woman has the task of helping her husband to become ever more a man."

I was visiting Gustaf and Lillian a few days ago. They are long-timer parishioners and faithful mass-goers until a few months ago when he was stricken with throat cancer and she had hip replacement.

Speaking with a rasping voice, he said, "Father, we have been married for sixty years and would you believe, I never won a single argument!" Hovering close by, she responded, "That's not true. You won a couple of them." Furious, he raised a finger and said to me, "See what I mean. Even this I cannot win." They are a lovely couple originally from Malta, the island where St. Paul was shipwrecked.

Visita Pastoral

Como se ha mencionado en esta columna y como se anunció en la iglesia en todas las misas de los dos últimos fines de semana, Su Exce-lencia, monseñor Salvatore J. Cordileone, arzobispo de San Francisco, está haciendo una visita pastoral aquí en nuestra parroquia este fin de semana, 20 y 21 de Septiembre.

En una carta que envió a las parroquias en agosto del 2013, el Arzobispo explicó que "el Derecho Canónico requiere que los obispos visiten las parroquias de su diócesis al menos una vez cada cinco años". Añadió que dicha visita es "una de las mejores maneras en que un obispo puede llegar a conocer bien su diócesis".

Damos la bienvenida con gran alegría este maravilloso evento que tendrá lugar en nuestra parroquia. De las 90 parroquias que conforman la Arquidiócesis, creo que somos la 18 al ser visitada. Para comprender mejor la importancia de esta visita, permítanme aclarar la estructura de la Iglesia. Toda la Iglesia católica está compuesta por las diócesis, cada una encabezada por un obispo. Existen 3, 127 diócesis de todo el mundo; 194 en los Estados Unidos. El obispo ejerce la autoridad y se encarga de la atención pastoral y espiritual de las personas. Para una mejor administración y gestión, las diócesis se dividen en comunidades llamadas parroquias dirigido por un pastor. El párroco, otros sacerdotes y diáconos asignados en esa parroquia sirven como ayudantes, colaboradores y ayudantes al obispo en su papel como pastor. Así, la visita de un obispo es la del verdadero pastor del rebaño. Su presencia envía un mensaje claro de que él se preocupa por nosotros, y también nos hace tomar conciencia de que somos parte de una comunidad más grande, el de la diócesis e incluso de la iglesia universal.

Como esperamos que el arzobispo se familiarice con nuestra parroquia, también es importante que lleguemos a conocerlo. Nació el 5 de junio de 1956 en San Diego, California a León y María Cordileone (fallecida en Mayo pasado). Fue ordenado sacerdote en San Diego en el 9 de Julio de 1982 Después de veinte años de ser sacerdote en San Diego y en Roma, fue ordenado obispo el 21 de Agosto del 2002 Siete años más tarde fue nombrado obispo de Oakland y en Julio 27 del 2012 fue nombrado el Noveno Arzobispo de San Francisco, sucediendo Arzobispo George Niederauer.

Arzobispo Cordileone habla Inglés, italiano, español y latín. Él es de voz suave y humilde. Le encanta la música de jazz, la natación, el béisbol y el fútbol. Él es un partidario firme y valiente del matrimonio según la definición de la iglesia entre un hombre y una mujer para la que ha sido criticado por los opositores.

Incluso bajo un intenso ataque, él se mantuvo en calma y explica claramente la posición de la iglesia e invita abiertamente a sus críticos a un diálogo porque "es el encuentro personal que cambia la visión del otro y ablanda el corazón." Es en esta luz que el arzobispo está llegando.

Al presidir en la boda de 20 parejas en la Basílica de San Pedro el domingo pasado, el Papa Francisco destacó en el papel complementario del hombre y la mujer en el viaje conjunto por la vida. "El marido ayuda a su esposa a ser cada vez más una mujer, dijo," y la mujer tiene la tarea de ayudar a su esposo a ser cada vez más un hombre."

Fui a visitar a Gustavo y Lillian hace unos días. Son feligreses largo de temporizador y fieles en masa a los asistentes hasta hace unos meses, cuando fue atacado por el cáncer de garganta y tuvo un reemplazo de cadera. Hablando con una voz ronca, dijo: "Padre, hemos estado casados durante sesenta años, y usted puede creer, yo nunca gané un solo argumento!" Ella respondió: "Eso no es cierto. Te has ganado un par de ellos" Furioso, levantó un dedo y me dijo: "¿Ves lo que quiero decir. Incluso esto no puedo ganar." Son una pareja encantadora originarios de Malta, la isla donde San Pablo naufragó.
