Tomen un poco de tiempo y trate de conocer a la persona que está a su lado acompañándolo en la Misa.*

BULLETIN DEADLINE: Tuesday 3:00 p.m.

FESTIVAL

Festival Day is always a great time to hang out together as one big parish family, dressing up in one's favorite native attire, trying different cuisines and drinks, watching cultural dances from the islands and from the inlands, listening to songs, chatting and laughing. Of course, it's not complete without procession, prayers and masses.

Here are some feedbacks:

Rosa Naiveli, one of the leaders of the Fijian community and the sister of my good friend, the late Fr. Tavite, has this to say: "St. Bruno's is blessed to have a diversity of people who bring together their different cultures. It is very enriching; it is not a one-sided event. It is such a joy to share our traditions." She added that the Fijian community will have more numbers in the program next year.

Maria Valencia, CCD catechist led the indigenous dance called Pollera Colorada. She said "me gusto todo, la comida, los bailes y porque es un grupo familiar." ("I like everything; the food, the dances and because it is a gathering of families.") She also had a good sale of her expertise, ceviche.

Jam Pineda, choir director of the Singles for Christ (SFC), who with the group presented two song numbers says, "The festival is a good way to bond with other cultures and to appreciate other traditions."

Pui Mahe said, "I really like it and I saw more people coming together this year. It gives me strength to do things for the parish." She and Pava, secretary and treasurer of the Tongan community, respectively, taught most of the dance numbers performed by the Lataki (Tongan youth). They spent the entire week before the festival rehearsing. It paid off. The girls were all graceful and the boys had powerful moves that were just exciting to watch.

I know I have said this before but it is worth repeating: the Tongan community is just amazing. In terms of number, they are the smallest but in terms of participation and involvement, they are number one. At their fundraiser on the Saturday before the festival, they raised an amazing amount of $37,000!

As early as July, they started the Sunday barbecue. Amu, the leader, would come very early on Sunday morning to set up the stand, then from here he would go straight to work. Others in the group are just as dedicated and hardworking.

Not to be overlooked is the hard and tedious work of setting up the beams and canvass covers of the courtyard. Deacon Ramon, Francisco, Pai and two Lataki volunteers spent many hours putting up and dismantling the structure. Thanks too for all liturgical ministers, choirs and church decorators.

Though, fundraising is not anymore the focus of our festival, still we were able to raise a modest amount of $ $64,668.75. That's from the food sales, dinner & dance events, games and the Sunday collection. Through the intercession of Saint Bruno, may God bless us all!

FESTIVAL

Día del festival es siempre un buen momento para estar juntos como una familia parroquial grande, vestirse con una vestimenta nativa favorito, probar diferentes tipos de cocina y bebidas, viendo bailes culturales de las islas y de las tierras interiores, escuchar canciones, charlando y riendo. Por supuesto, no es completa sin procesión, oraciones y misas.

Estas son algunas de evaluaciones:

Rosa Naiveli, uno de los líderes de la comunidad de Fiji y la hermana de mi buen amigo, el difunto Padre Tavite, dijo esto: "San Bruno tiene la bendición de tener una diversidad de personas que se reúnen a sus diferentes culturas. Es muy enriquecedor; no es un evento de un solo lado. Es una gran alegría para compartir nuestras tradiciones." Ella añadió que la comunidad de Fiji tendrá más números en el programa el próximo año.

María Valencia, catequista CCD llevó la danza indígena llamada Pollera Colorada. Ella dijo "Me gusta todo; La comida, los bailes y porque es un encuentro de familias" que también tenía una buena venta de su experiencia, ceviche.

Jam Pineda, director del coro (SFC), que con el grupo presentó dos números de canto dice: "El festival es una buena manera de relacionarse con otras culturas y apreciar otras tradiciones."

Pui Mahe dijo: "Me gusta mucho y vi a más personas que se unen este año. Me da fuerza para hacer cosas para la parroquia." Ella y Pava, secretario y tesorero de la comunidad de Tonga, respectivamente, enseñó la mayor parte de los números de baile que realiza el Lataki (jóvenes de Tonga). Se pasaron toda la semana antes del festival ensayando. Valió la pena. Las chicas eran todos agraciado y los niños tenían poderosos movimientos que eran simplemente emocionantes de ver.

Sé que he dicho esto antes, pero vale la pena repetirlo: la comunidad de Tonga es simplemente increíble. En términos de número, que son los más pequeños, pero en términos de participación y protagonismo, son el número uno. En su recaudación de fondos el sábado antes del festival, recaudaron una increíble cantidad de $37,000!

Ya en julio, comenzaron la barbacoa los domingos. Amu, el líder, vendría muy temprano en la mañana del domingo para establecer la base y de aquí se iba directamente a trabajar. Otros en el grupo son tan dedicados y trabajadores.

No debe pasarse por alto el trabajo duro y tedioso de la creación de las vigas y cubiertas del patio. Diácono Ramón, Francisco, Pai y dos voluntarios del Lataki pasaron muchas horas poniendo y quitando la estructura. Gracias también a todos los ministros litúrgicos, coros y decoradores de la iglesia.

Sin embargo, la recaudación de fondos ya no es el foco de nuestro festival, todavía fuimos capaces de recaudar una modesta cantidad de $64,668.75. Eso es por la venta de comida, cena y eventos de baile, juegos y la colecta del Domingo. Por la intercesión de San Bruno, que Dios los bendiga!

Year of Mercy

Catechism Corner

With election propaganda in full swing, it is easy for most people to be confused about the real issues. Our children are looking to us to show them what it means to be catholic. Jesus gave the keys of the kingdom to St. Peter as the first pope, so the Catholic Church has the authority to guide us in moral issues. What is unclear is how to prioritize these moral issues. There are 5 non-negotiable issues which safeguard Catholics as keepers of the moral code. The issue of whether a person is allowed to be born is the lynch pin for all social, political and moral issues. Unless a person exists, he cannot vote, collect social security, have a job, immigrate, be married, or even have his own children. The pro-life stance honors people from the womb to the tomb. Abortion is the intentional and direct killing of an innocent human being, and therefore is a form of homicide. Children should not die because they are "inconvenient". Catholics may not support embryonic stem cell research because there is no justification for destroying innocent embryonic humans. Adult stem cells can be used without doing any harm to the person from whom they came. Cloning of humans is also offensive to Catholics since it takes God out of the mix. It attempts to make a human without any connection to the conjugal union. Cloning also involves abortion because the rejected or unsuccessful embryonic clones are destroyed, yet each clone is a human being. Often disguised as mercy killing, euthanasia is also a form of homicide. No person has the right to take his own life, and no one has the right to take the life of any innocent person. True compassion cannot include intentionally doing something evil to another person. And lastly, homosexual or same sex marriage is not supported by the church because it violates natural law. Calling something marriage does not make it so in the eyes of God. The union of a man and a woman is a covenant which is ordered toward the procreation and education of children and the unity of the spouses.
